

The Meek Are Those Who Wait!

Waiting on the Lord is not a learned behavior. It is more "caught" than "taught". To wait upon Him is the picture of two ropes being twisted together, making a larger rope. It is the picture of two types of thread being woven together in such a manner that it becomes cloth. Waiting on the Lord takes our weakness and weaves it into His strength! Now, having our life twisted around the things of God is not natural to us. It is contrary to our selfish, carnal nature. Remember, the flesh is at enmity with God. Waiting on God does not mean you are not doing anything. You are not sitting around waiting for God to show up. No, no, no! He already has come! Now you are tied to Him! Now, life flows in you, on you, and through you! You find yourself caught up with all that He is doing!

A person waiting on God will be busy! But you're not really doing anything. He's doing it all and you are just coming along for the ride. What a wonderful way to live! One who waits upon the Lord is the one who is meek, once who has surrendered his will and agenda to Someone else. Jesus taught about this subject when He declared:

*Blessed are the meek, For they shall inherit the earth.
Matthew 5:5*

You cannot hang out with the Blessor and not be blessed. It is apart of His very being! Inheriting the earth is only promised to the meek. And it is not instantaneous. But it is certain. God is not a liar. Have you learned to rejoice yet? When everything seemingly is falling apart around you, Satan wants you to curse God and walk away. But the meek are so entwined around the Holy Spirit that walking away is not even in their hearts. Instead, they are praising, not complaining. They are not hoping, but they are doing exploits! Having everything taken away seems not to dissuade them. Instead, it causes them to praise even more. To those individuals the earth is waiting to be reaped.
